14th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Luke 10: 1-12, 17-20

Today’s Gospel begins with Jesus sending seventy-two men to preach and heal “in his name.” Someone who speaks or acts in someone else’s name has authority and power from that person so the actions and words of the representative becomes the actions and the words of the person who sent him. That’s why Jesus tells his disciples in verse 16 (a verse not in today’s reading) that whoever hears them also hears him and whoever rejects them also rejects him.

Exaggeration was a teaching technique rabbis often used in Jesus’ day to stress an important point. We find an example of exaggeration in today’s Gospel story when Jesus tells the seventy-two they should not greet anyone on the way.

Most Jewish people readily entertained strangers because there are many instances in the Bible in which angels disguised as travelers from distant lands blessed those who showed them hospitality. Therefore, the Jews routinely offered strangers something to eat because there was always the possibility a stranger was really an angel who would bless them for their generosity.

The host often slaughtered, skinned, and then roasted an animal like a sheep or a calf over an open pit or in an earthen oven, delaying the visitor’s journey by several hours. When Jesus said the seventy two should not even greet anyone, he was thinking of the delay that would result if someone wanted to show them hospitality. Therefore, Jesus was telling the disciples their mission to preach the Gospel was so urgent, they were not to postpone it.

The number of men Jesus sends on this mission is also significant. In Genesis 10, we find a list of the nations of the earth. Since there are seventy-two nations on this list, the number seventy-two became symbolic of all the nations of the world. Therefore, Jesus chose seventy-two men to symbolically say his followers had to preach the Gospel to all people.

When Jesus tells the seventy-two he is sending them out like lambs among wolves, he is warning them that this task is not going to be easy. This means they are going to experience hostility because of the Gospel and they will even be threatened with physical harm.

For Reflection

The professional religious, like priests and ministers, are not the only ones responsible for preaching the Gospel. Because Jesus also needs you to bring his word to others, your mission is just as urgent as that of the seventy-two. Make up your mind to tell someone about Jesus this week.

A BIBLICAL UNDERSTANDING OF SERVICE

Service is expected—you were created for good works (Eph 2:10)

Service must be undivided-you cannot serve two masters (Lk:16)

Service is to be sacrificial—service that counts is service that costs (Romans 12:1)

Service is to benefit others—God has given you spiritual gifts to serve His body, the church (1 Corinthians 12:7).
